From Sam Ellison, Chair of the Board of Directors

Today's thriving economic regions are places that welcome and include people of all types. Diversity is a core value of my company and this chamber. We embrace it, not only because it's the right thing to do, but we've all learned that diversity of all kinds is good for business, too. As representatives of the private sector in the city and county's economic development function, let it be known that this core value stands and we will remain inclusive of everyone as we carry out our work.
